ANGELS MANAGER MIKE SCIOSCIA:

On not being able to capitalize on the early opportunities:

"Yeah no doubt early in the game. In fact, for the first probably half of the game we had a lot of guys in scoring position. Give Gonzales some credit. He made some pitches, got out of it. A couple balls we hit hard with guys in scoring position, like Kinsler lined out late. Those guys made some plays, so we just couldn't pressure them enough offensively, but we did get guys on the bases early, that's for sure."

On what he thought Barria was able to do well tonight:

"He did a good job outside of the one fastball against Heredia that he hit for the double with two outs in the 5th he just didn't quite get where he wanted to. He got to a certain point in the game and definitely gave us a chance to win. Got a little bit tired in the sixth, but outside of a couple pitches here or there, he pitched a good game. I think the walks obviously came back. He walked three guys and put some baserunners out there, but outside of that he pitched well."
